

Method For The Extraction of Image Features Caused by Structure Light Using Image Reconstruction

Abstract of Disclosure

A method for generating, in a non-contact range finding and measurement system, a template structure representative of the surface of an observed object, and for utilizing the template structure to synthesize data points in corrupted regions of an image of the object.

09683371

Figures

09683371